FRIDAY MORNING, DEC. 12, 1873.

SMALL MEMPHIS REVEALED

In two or three days more the opportunity for exercising the elective franchise will close, so far as the municipal election in January is concerned. The people have it in their power to avail themselves of the present opportunity or not. We deem it an imperative duty for every man to do so. It may and doubtless is a disagreeable task, but still duty demands it. If apathy prevail, and men will not register, why, of course, the election must go by default. If such should be the case, and the enemies of the people being elected, the taxes are increased, the affairs of the city government mismanaged, and her hopes of reformation blighted, those gentlemen who refused to register cannot consistently make any complaint; they have made their bed and must lie in it. Last September when the epidemic took Memphis by the throat, every man in the city deplored the consequences of the dreadful scourge. And yet the pestilence had a well-ascertained cause, and by precaution might have been ward off. The existence of the cause would have been prevented, and, of course, the city saved from the plague. Men said in their heart then: "If we survive this affliction, we will turn over a new leaf." The municipal offices of Memphis must be reconstructed; she must be better governed by men of integrity, and not by political rings; she must have radical reform. And yet six weeks have hardly passed since the disappearance of the yellow-fever, when the respectable business men of the city are acting so as to leave the destinies of Memphis, for the next two years, to the tender mercies of a corrupt set of party rings as ever proposed to violate the rights and squander the means of the people. An absurd prejudice, founded for the most part in personal spleen, is being permitted to hinder men from taking an active part in the management of a canvass upon the issue of which depends the very existence of their city as a place of commercial prosperity. Men deplore the helpless manner in which the city government is drifting into unclean and incompetent hands, and yet are doing nothing to prevent it! Of the two candidates they think Baby the better man—none too troubled by hungry and clamorous adherents, nor hedged in nor compressed by promises of fat jobs to the henchmen of various nationalities. But—let—here and here the honest citizen shakes his head, and, disgusted with the whole affair, refuses to register, and, of course, can not vote. In the meantime every man and boy of the Radical opposition is preparing to do his part to give the control of the city government to the Radical party. Well, gentlemen, you will have to pay the piper, while the Radical party dances. When pay-day comes, however, please remember that we have repeatedly urged, and do now again urge you, before it is too late, to save the city. Will you do it?

THE HANSAKES IN JAPAN.

Japan is still the land of the Ichi-ban, the abode of idolatry, the ancient home of superstition and demon-worship. Isolated for centuries from all other nations, every stranger, touching the Japanese shores is an enemy, and, until recently, was punished with death. The aloofness of ignorance are always the strongholds of superstition, and hence, when the stranger enters Japan, he is met by a new religion, and attacks the most and fiercest systems of paganism and demonology prevailing in that country, church and state unite in encouraging a vicious war to visit speedy and terrible punishment upon the head of the offending missionary. Since the unsealing of the Oriental nations to European and American intercourse, our government entered into treaty relations with Japan, stipulating, among other things, that the persecutions of christian missionaries by Japanese zealots should be prohibited. But the spirit of religious bigotry repeats oftenest conscience no realities, and hence the most cruel persecutions have been visited on the noble men who endeavored to carry the gospel of Christ into Japan. These missionaries are principally of the Catholic faith—a church, which, whatever we may think of her theory of belief, has made her name illustrious in her noble efforts to cure the infirmities of our race. "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations," and hence the burden of martyrdom has fallen upon the devoted heads of her missionary army. Our advice for Japan, let us say, is to let the details of a recent and most cruel massacre of the Roman Catholic missionaries residing at Yokohama, by the brutal mob of that city. The infuriated hordes seized the number of these ineffective men, and dragged them through the streets until dead! But yesterday we were called upon to denounce the exhibition of religious intolerance at the hands of the Catholics of Texas, in Mexico; to-day it is our duty to denounce a similar exhibition against that denomination in Japan. These disgraceful scenes spring from a common cause; they have their source in the savagery of hearts untouched by the purifying and ennobling sentiments of our glorious faith—the faith of the meek and lowly Jesus, whose beautiful sermon on the Mount of Olivet, and all of whose grand and stately sentences to the wandering and listening Jews, constitute not only the best system of ethics ever devised or revealed to mankind, but the noblest theme on civil and religious liberty which ever challenged the admiration of the sages, statesmen and philosophers of the world. It is to think that the spirit of the true christian faith is yet unknown to so many millions of the human race, and so much abused by so many millions of others at whose heart it has knocked in vain for entrance. Still we renew our trust in the promise that the time will come when no man on the surface of the broad earth need ask his brother "Know ye the Lord."

COTTON FACTORS

W. B. GALBREATH, COTTON FACTOR

Commission Merchants, 12 UNION STREET, MAGNOLIA BLOCK, UP STAIRS.

Don't fail to register and get your papers. If you do not you cannot vote, and you fail in the first duty of a citizen.

This cotton tax is likely to be a question that will be disposed of by our present congress. It will be remembered that an equally divided court refused to declare the law levying the tax unconstitutional, and that this decision has brought the question before congress—the only body which now has the power to do so.

The tax was a harsh and cruel war measure, embittered by the struggle in which it had been engaged with the north. The north imposed this tax as a punishment, in order to make the "rebels" pay some of the expenses of the war. So soon as passion began to yield to reason the tax was removed, but not until it had worked as great mischief. It is not now time that reparation was made complete by a return of the money to the people from whom it was illegally collected.

This St. Louis Democrat has done noble service for the Mississippi valley by its persistent and intelligent presentation of the availability of the Mississippi river as a route to the sea from the west.

To one of its latest articles on the subject it says: "If New York statesmen are going to join in the schemes for the improvement of the St. Lawrence river to the neglect of the Mississippi, they will find that Montreal and not New York will be the point to which the grain collected in the elevators of Milwaukee, Chicago, Toledo and other points will go for shipment to foreign ports. With the Mississippi improved as it should be, New York City will have a worse connection with every month in the year, over which grain can be shipped from the west to her harbors in less time and at less cost than she gets it by the lakes and Erie canal."

GRANT HITS SUMNER. President Grant is not famed for his sparkling wit as the celebrated Irishman, Dean Swift, nor does he, as a general rule, sprinkle his reception speeches with Attic salt; still we find a semi-occasional illustration of caustic humor in our illustrious and noble-loving President, which approximates wit, as the speech of a man in granite resembles the diamond. For instance, in his Wednesday last reception of the Louisiana colored delegation to the national civil rights convention, President Grant dealt the Massachusetts senator, of civil rights bill notoriety, a back-handed reminder of that gentleman's hobby, now ridden to death. In response to an address thanking him for the care and attention he had given the colored people of Louisiana, the President said, looking the civil rights question, that he did not know what congress would do in the matter, but thought it likely that that body would pass some civil rights bill, and, continued the President, doubtless, with a malicious wink at Senator Sumner who accompanied the delegation, "If such bill is defeated it will probably be because some extreme measure may be urged by some person claiming to be a particular friend of the colored man." After that which will deny that General Grant can and upon rare occasions plant his intellectual nails right between the eyes of his adversary.
